

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC KIDS

LOOK & LEARN

Bears

There are many kinds of bears.

A sun bear has a yellow patch of fur on its chest. Can you find it?

GUESS WHAT?

Sun bears
love to eat
honey!

Black bears are usually black, but they can also have brown fur or even white fur.

Black bears eat flowers, berries,
and small animals.

These bears are hunting for fish.

GUESS WHAT?

When a
black bear is born,
it is very small—about
the same size as a
can of soup.

Polar bears are the biggest bears
in the world.

Polar bears live in a cold place called the Arctic.

Their white fur makes them hard to find in the snow.

GUESS
WHAT?

Polar bears can swim. They have big paws that help them paddle
through the cold water.

Giant panda bears have round white heads and black spots around their eyes.

Giant pandas spend the day eating bamboo. Chomp!

GUESS WHAT?

Giant
pandas can do somersaults!

This is a brown bear. When it is all grown up,
it can be as big as a small car.

A photograph of a mother brown bear and her cub resting on a large, light-colored log. The mother bear is on the left, looking towards the camera with a calm expression. The cub is on the right, leaning its head against the log and appearing to be asleep. The background shows a grassy area with some fallen leaves.

These brown bears are taking a nap.
Good night, bears.

GUESS
WHAT?

Mother brown bears talk to their babies by humming.

Look at all the bears!
Can you name each kind of bear? Which is your favorite? Why?

brown bear

black bear

giant panda bear

sun bear

polar bear

