TRAVEL PREPARATION

Fiona is very excited about her trip to Kenya tomorrow. However, she has a lot of preparation to do. She needs to go to the chemist to buy some sun cream because it's very hot there and the sun can be dangerous. She's also going to the clothes shop to buy some shorts for the safari. She is planning to stay for a month, so this evening she's going to visit her friend Angela to say goodbye. They're going to drink wine together and talk about their holiday plans.

There are some health risks in Africa, so yesterday she visited the doctor to get some vaccinations. And tomorrow, she's going to get up early to pack her bags. She also wants to install some special travel apps on her smartphone to make her trip easier. When Fiona travels, she usually orders a taxi to go to the airport. She never goes by bus or train because she isn't normally well-organised. She often does everything at the last minute.

3 Grammar - Infinitive of purpose

Look at the sentence below.

She needs to go to the chemist to buy some sun cream.

The underlined structure is called the 'infinitive of purpose'. We use the infinitive of purpose to answer the question 'Why ...?' For example:

A: Why did you call me?

B: To say goodbye.
